WHEN MEAT IS COSTLY

SEVERAL WAYS IN WHICH CHEAP CUTS CAN BE PREPARED.

Meck Chicken and Beef Leaf Made From Round Steak—Breakfast Dish of Liver and Pork—Meat Pie.

Here are some ways in which cheap cuts of meat can be prepared:

Meck Chicken.—One and a half pounds of round steak, cut into small pieces about two inches square and in flour, put in roasting pan and fry in butter till brown. Then remove from stove, cover with cold water, add a little flour, set in the oven and simmer for three hours; stir occasionally, and add more water as needed to keep the meat covered. When the meat is cooked it tastes surprisingly like chicken. Thicken the gravy with it necessary. Add salt about an hour before it is done.

Beef Leaf.—Three pounds round steak, one-half pound salt pork, four or five soda crackers, one-half cup of milk. Add more salt if desired. Season with one-half teaspoon of ground sage, or clove or garlic, or a few drops of onion extract. Mix into a loaf and bake in oven. Bake occasionally.

Breakfast Dish.—Take five cents' worth of liver and ten cents' worth of a cheap cut of pork and put in a kettle together; cover with four quarts of water, cook slowly for an hour, salt after it has commenced to boil, and stir occasionally. Drain off half of the liquid and use for soup stock; it is splendid. Place the remainder on the fire and stir in enough yellow cornmeal to make as thick as mush. Run the pork and liver through a meat chopper, or chop fine. Season with more salt, sage and pepper, and stir into the meat mush. Turn out into a pan and set in a cool place. Fry for breakfast, it will keep for a week.

Meat Pie.—Get a ten-cent neck cut of meat; trim, place in kettle, cover with cold water, let come to a boil, then simmer till done, keeping the same amount of water on it. When it is cooked, remove the meat, break it up in small pieces, season and cover with stock. Thicken with flour. Then pour the mixture in a basin. Make a dough as follows: Two cups flour, one heaping teaspoon of baking powder, a pinch of salt, three round tablespoons of lard, or butter, mix with enough water to make a dough that can be shaped with the hands, press into a flat shape and cover the meat in the basin. Bake until done, about half or three-quarters of an hour. Half of the amount of meat and stock will be enough for four people. If all of the meat and stock is used, double the quantities for the dough. If only half of the meat is used, the balance may be made into meat cakes for breakfast or luncheon as follows: Chop the meat, roll three crackers, chop one small onion, salt and pepper to taste, one tablespoon of butter and one egg. Beat the egg without separating, melt the butter, mix all together, make into flat cakes and fry in meat drippings.

Russian Patties.
One pint of oysters; parboil, strain and reserve liquor; there should be about one cupful. Make a sauce of three tablespoons of butter, four and one-half tablespoons of flour, one-half cupful of chicken stock, the half cupful of oyster liquor and one-half cupful of cream, all the yolks of two eggs, one tablespoonful of grated horseradish, two tablespoons of capers, three-quarters of a tablespoonful of lemon juice and from one-half to one level teaspoonful of salt, according to saltiness of oysters. Stir in one tablespoonful each of white pepper and paprika, then add the drained oysters. As soon as the oysters plump and their edges curl fill into patty shells and serve very hot.

Spiced Beef.
A ten-pound roast beef. Rub into this half a teaspoon of salt, one tablespoon of black pepper, two tablespoons each of ground allspice and cloves. Then put the beef into a vessel that will fit it. Pour two quarts of vinegar on it, and let it remain in the vinegar one week, turning it every day. Cover tight to keep the flavor in the meat. Then take it out and tie up tight in a clean cloth. Put it to cook with all the juice, adding one quart of water and let it boil two hours and a quarter. Let it be cold when taken out of the cloth. Slice thin. It is excellent for luncheons and parties.

Raised Doughnuts.
One cup warm milk, one cup sugar, two cups melted lard, one cup yeast, a level teaspoon salt, half a nutmeg, two eggs and enough flour to make a sponge; let raise over night; add more flour, mold and cut with small jelly glass, the dough being rolled about half an inch thick; put in greased pan and set near stove to raise; when very light put in large kettle of hot lard and cook from seven to eight minutes; take from kettle and put on brown paper to drain and drop two or three drops of lemon on each.

Luncheon Sandwiches.
Butter slightly slices of white bread, chop fine four stalks of celery and the same quantity of cold meat. Make a mayonnaise dressing, stir it into meat and celery, spread on the bread, put a plain slice of bread and butter on top.

NOTES FROM MEADOWBROOK FARM

By William Pitt

Start the berry patch early.

Heavy draft horses are in demand.

Timothy hay is a dangerous feed for sheep.

Best molasses acts as a tonic when fed to stock.

Weeds harbor injurious insects and plant diseases.

In breeding time hogs take 112 days before they farrow.

Timothy seed may be sown in the spring if it is sown early.

The main poultry building should face the south or southeast.

The matter of feeding the mare is quite an important consideration.

The bean straw makes a good feed for sheep or cattle if properly handled.

The addition of manure to a clay soil will make it lighter and warmer.

The carrot, like most all root crops, responds readily to frequent cultivation.

To grow cucumbers to perfection plenty of heat, light and moisture are required.

Carrots should be sown early as the crop, especially the late varieties, require a long season.

Do not expect success with house plants unless you give them enough room and enough sunlight.

Clover and orchard grass seed should be sown on winter grain before the frost is out of the ground.

Pig losses are invariably found to be much smaller where they are kept on pasture than under any other conditions.

The most potent cause of hens eating their eggs is a lack of the mineral elements in their system to make the egg shell.

Barley is best suited for a cool climate and a good soil, like limestone, slate or red clay soil; a sandy loam is too dry and hot.

While sweet corn will grow on almost all good farm land, yet it will yield larger ears on a deep, sandy or river bottom loam.

A crop of beans can be grown and marketed cheaper than a crop of corn and are much easier on the land, being a nitrogen gatherer.

After long investigation, three European scientists have decided that trees, through their foliage, extract free nitrogen from the atmosphere.

As soon as pigs commence to eat spread a little white oats over the floor after the slop is eaten. Keep the troughs and feed yards clean and dry.

Rape may be seeded at any time between early May and late June, depending upon what time the crop is wanted for forage or pasture purposes.

Plaster, when properly applied, is beneficial to all leguminous crops, especially red, white, crimson and alsike clovers; disc peas, beans and potatoes.

The most economical, as well as the best growing ration for swine pigs is equal parts of wheat middlings and oat meal, and about one-fourth the amount of flaxseed meal.

The Indian Runner ducks are usually very active and hardy, and will quickly roam far and wide in search of insect life, which if plentiful will form a large part of their food.

The average bean crop for the United States is about 16 bushels but individual growers are getting as high as 40 bushels per acre where conditions are right and at no greater expense.

The yield of corn and potatoes is often largely increased from a change in seed, especially where the improved and adapted varieties take the place of run out, stock of inferior quality.

Cockerels five months old may be looked upon as having attained their growth, or, at least, having sufficiently approximated maturity to his ready for the fattening crates; and these, with hens one year old and upward, and old roosters, may be expected to fatten in from ten days to two weeks.

Bad Spells

"I suffered, during girlhood, from womanly weakness," writes Mrs. Mollie Navy, of Walnut, N. C. "At last, I was almost bed-ridden, and had to give up. We had three doctors. All the time, I was getting worse. I had bad spells, that lasted from 7 to 23 days. In one week, after I gave Cardui a trial, I could eat, sleep, and joke, as well as anybody. In 8 weeks, I was well. I had been an invalid for 5 weary years! Cardui relieved me, when everything else failed."

THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 10, 1914.

Entered at the Greenville, Ky., postoffice as second-class matter.

When Captain Webb swam the English Channel flying machines had not been invented. Now that anybody can fly across the channel in twenty-two minutes there is no reason why William Burgess, of Yorkshire, should spend twenty-two hours in swimming across.

A Chicago man, after a spat with his wife, landed in the prison where he spent the night. The following morning he made the statement that he had just experienced his first night of quiet sleep in thirteen years. This seems to indicate that there are worse places in the world than jails, after all.

Of course it is best for tea to be served in the afternoon, but the Baltimore Sun ventures to suggest as a palliative for the undue price of sugar: "Possibly the removal of the differential in duty between raw and refined sugar would relieve the situation." Tell it not in Havemeyer, breathe it not in Arbuttle.

Whether Washington was descended from William the Conqueror or is immortal. The essential thing is that he was the conqueror of George III. If Washington were the descendant of the Conqueror it would be a more important compliment to William than to George.

The Chicago News blirts out the uncanny truth that there are now two kinds of English: "King's English" and "headline English." But it neglects to add that the dabbler in producing good headline English is at the top of his profession. He can put into a monosyllable a chapter of swift commentary.

A THOUSAND cotton planters are meeting in Montgomery to refute the official and unofficial estimates of the cotton crop. They would have done better to save their traveling expenses. They have not much cotton to sell yet, and by the time the bulk of their cotton is picked there will be more definite information regarding the size of the crop.

GERMANY follows on after France in taking steps to reduce the cost of living, in the most obvious way, by considering measures for the tariff on foodstuffs. The Minister of Agriculture has taken the extraordinary step, as a means of fodder to needy persons at reduced prices. Men and women must live, even if the middleman fares less sumptuously as the days go by.

IN CHINA famine stalks abroad as a result of disastrous floods sweeping over large areas of cultivated lands and destroying the crops. In France and Germany there are food riots brought about by famine prices caused by high tariffs on bread and meat. Because the Chinese cannot help themselves they are more deserving of commiseration than their highly civilized fellow-sufferers.

DURING a man's lifetime he has got to hold to the course pretty hard or he will get pushed off by some more enterprising individual, and the chances are not near so good for him to receive a bunch of roses as they are for him to get a wreath of barbed wire hung about his neck. But when he dies everything changes. They bring him a wagonload of flowers and some kind friend writes a two column appreciation in which all the big words in the English language tumble over each other, and in the end express nothing. In the background fate looks on and laughs while she pulls the strings that make her puppets dance.

HENRY RHOADS

The Godfather of Muhlenberg County
By OTTO A. ROTHERT

NUMBER of pioneers who settled in the section of the Green river country which included what is now Muhlenberg county, were men or sons of men who had fought in the Revolution under Gen. John Peter Gabriel Muhlenberg, or under Gen. Wm. Russell. Those of the Gen. Muhlenberg contingency, who located in the northern part of the county, were of German descent and were among the earliest of the county's pioneers. Wm. Campbell, who about the year 1795 established Coney Station, and the Russells who helped him establish Greenville in 1799, were Virginians and members of the Gen. Russell family. The pioneers who first settled in the central and southern sections of the county were Virginians and Carolinians, mostly of English, Scotch and Irish extraction.

Representatives of Gen. Muhlenberg's army drifted to this part of the Green river country from Pennsylvania and northern Virginia. Most of Gen. Muhlenberg's soldiers were born in America, but their fathers came from Germany and Holland long before the Revolution. Among these Revolutionary soldiers was Henry Rhoads, the Godfather of Muhlenberg county, who not only procured the name of his General for Muhlenberg county, but who was also a prominent pioneer in western Kentucky, and identified with the early development of Muhlenberg county and his section of the Green river country.

In Perrin's History of Kentucky, page 997, a brief sketch of the life of Henry Rhoads is incidentally introduced in a biography of Prof. McHenry Rhoads, the well known educator, who is a son of Absalom J. Rhoads, a grandson of Solomon Rhoads, Jr., and a great grandson of Henry Rhoads. From this sketch I quote:

"Henry Rhoads was born in Germany in 1759 and died in Logan county in 1814. (He died in Muhlenberg county—O. A. R.) He and two of his brothers came to America about 1787 and settled in Bedford county, Penn. In 1790 he married Elizabeth Stoner, of Maryland. He fought for his adopted country through the great struggle for independence, under the leadership of Gen. Muhlenberg. After the war for Liberty, having lost heavily in the cause, he, with his two brothers and their families, came to Kentucky. They stopped first at Bardonia, where they left their wives and children, and then went out in the wilderness to find a site to build a town. The place selected was at the falls of Green river where they started a settlement and called it Rhoadsville. After three years of peaceable possession an action was entered in the Ohio circuit court, styled 'John Handley vs. Henry Rhoads and others,' for the possession of the land on which the new town stood. The suit was gained by the plaintiff, Henry Rhoads and a few of his friends then removed to Barnett's Station, on Rough creek, where he lived five years, during which time the present town of Hartford was laid out and a few houses built. He next moved to Logan county and settled, where he owned 7,000 acres of military land. He represented the county in the legislature of Kentucky in 1798, on its formation as a county, and named it in honor of Gen. Muhlenberg."

Collins, in his History of Kentucky, under the head of McLean County, says:

"The first fort or station in McLean county was built where Calhoun now stands, in 1788, by Solomon Rhoads, and called Vienna. In 1790, James Inman built Pond Station, a few miles south east of Calhoun."

Other authorities and most traditions say Henry Rhoads established a station some time between 1784 and 1788 where Calhoun now stands, and that he was assisted in this work by his brother, Solomon Rhoads, and another brother whose name is usually given as David. At any rate, a few years after Henry Rhoads established, or helped to establish, Rhoadsville or Fort Vienna, he lost the title to all his land in that vicinity, and after living for a while near Hartford he moved in to what is now the Brainerd mine neighborhood in Boone county, Ky., which, at that time, was a part of Logan county.

From a letter written to me by Judge Lucius P. Little, of Owensboro, the highest authority on the history of the Green river country, I quote:

"When Henry Rhoads came to this part of the Green river country he stopped at Barnett's Fort, on Rough river, above Hartford. He first located his claim for land at the site of the present town of Calhoun, and laid out a town in 1794 and called it Rhoadsville. Wm. Rhoads was defeated by Capt. John Handley, agent for the Dorsey, of Maryland, the name of the town was changed to Vienna. Rhoads then went back to Barnett's Fort for a short time and soon after located in the bounds of the present county of Muhlenberg, five miles from Paradise, on Green river, and a mile from the present town of Brainerd, on the L. & N. railroad."

"Simultaneously with the departure of the Germans to the south side of the river they erected a fortification about five miles south from Runsey for refuge in case of Indian attack. This was called 'Pond Station,' now only the 'Station.' This was in Muhlenberg until the territory embracing it was made a part of McLean county. About the same time such of the residents of Fort Vienna as owned slaves upon the Fort and settled farms north of the river where some of their descendants are still to be found."

"As late as 1810 the settlement south of Cypress creek and extending far enough south to embrace Sacramento and Brennen, was commonly called 'The Dutch Settlement.' While these people were thrifty, yet few of them owned slaves."

In 1798, a few years after settling in Logan county, Henry Rhoads became a member of the state legislature, and on Dec. 14, 1798, an act was passed creating a new county out of parts of Christian and Logan counties. It was Henry Rhoads who proposed and secured the name of Muhlenberg for the new county. All local traditions on the subject, without exception, credit him with suggesting and procuring this name. The Proceedings of the Legislature probably show a record to that effect. Ed Porter Thompson, in his School History of Kentucky, page 162, says:

"Gen. Muhlenberg was at no time a resident of Kentucky. His name and his deeds, however, are of interest to us because some of the gallant members of his church who followed him when he left his pulpit to fight for independence had grants of land for military service, which they located on and below Green river soon after the close of the Revolution, and made their homes in what are now Muhlenberg, McLean and Ohio counties. One of them, the Hon. Henry Rhoads, was a member of the legislature in 1798, when Muhlenberg county was established, and procured it to be named in honor of his pastor and general."

On the same page Thompson continues the subject by giving a brief biography of Gen. Muhlenberg:

"When the war began the Rev. Peter Muhlenberg, then a young man, was pastor of a German Lutheran church at Woolstock, Virginia, though he was a native of Pennsylvania. In 1776 he was authorized to raise a regiment among the Germans of the Shenandoah valley, and was commissioned colonel. Having enlisted his command (the 8th Virginia, called also the 'German Regiment') he entered the pulpit with his sword and cockade and preached his farewell sermon. On the day following he set out with his men to join the army. In 1777 he was commissioned brigadier general. After the war he was for several years state treasurer of Pennsylvania, and served several terms in Congress. Through the influence of one to whom he had been a pastor in peace and a valiant captain in the fight for freedom, his ever-enduring monument (a county name) was erected, not in his own land, but in the wilderness of Kentucky."

It works on the lines of prevention of crime, prison reform, jail and prison evangelism, and the aid of the friendless ex-prisoners. Hundreds of persons go out of the two prisons of the State every year, and without help, spread over the country and become a menace to life and property.

Rev. R. A. Hoffman, the Dist. Sup't. of Prisons, has spent several days in this city, preaching in churches, in the county jail and at the public school. Those who help are aiding a worthy cause.

DIRECTORS—W. A. Wickliffe, W. G. Duncan, C. E. Martin, R. T. Martin, E. J. Puryear, C. M. Martin, Jno. T. Reynolds, Jr.

The standing and responsibility of the men who constitute our Board of Directors are a guarantee of careful, judicious management.

A Clean Man

Outside cleanliness is less than half the battle. A man may scrub himself a dozen times a day, and still be unclean. Good health means cleanliness not only outside, but inside. It means a clean stomach, clean bowels, clean blood, a clean liver, and new, clean, healthy tissues. The man who is clean in this way will look it and act it. He will work with energy and think clean, clear, healthy thoughts.

He will never be troubled with liver, lung, stomach or blood disorders. Dyspepsia and indigestion originate in unclean stomachs. Blood diseases are found where there is unclean blood. Consumption and bronchitis mean unclean lungs.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery

prevents these diseases. It makes a man's insides clean and healthy. It cleans the digestive organs, makes pure, clean blood, and clean, healthy flesh. It restores tone to the nervous system, and cures nervous exhaustion and prostration. It contains no alcohol or habit-forming drugs. Constipation is the most unclean uncleanliness. Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets cure it. They never gripe. Easy to take as candy.

TO PREVENT HOOF TROUBLES

Little Hook Shown in Illustration Should Be Included Among Equipment of Stable.

A tool that is one of the handiest things you can have about the stable is shown in the illustration. It is a hoof hook and should be included among the equipment of every well regulated stable, says the Prairie Farmer. A practical horseman says that the feet of the horse should be cleaned every morning before he leaves the stable. The hoof hook will remove all litter, pebbles or anything that may have become lodged in the foot. This precaution may prevent injury to the sole or sensitive structures of the foot. If the feet become very dry, pack them daily for a week with some form of clay. Then apply hard to the wall, to which may be added pine tar and rosin. This treatment holds the moisture in the feet and prevents further evaporation.

This treatment would seldom have to be resorted to except in the case of driving horses that can keep in the stable continuously and not given much work.

HANDY HOG-LOADING CHUTE

Convenient Farm Implement That Can Be Built on Pair of Old Cultivator Wheels.

A convenient chute for loading hogs or sheep into a wagon box is made by taking two pieces of 2 by 4 lumber eight feet long for the sides and nailing down a floor of any kind of planks three feet long with cleats for foot-holds; then construct sides of slats high enough to keep the animals from jumping over, says the Homestead. The slats should project a few inches beyond the floor on one end so that they will catch on the wagon box floor when the end gate is removed. A pair of cultivator or similar wheels and some kind of axle are used to make a truck placed about the center of the chute so that it may be easily moved from place to place. These wheels are of such a height or so placed that they take a proportionate part of the weight when the chute is in place. The line of this width is barely fits into the wagon box when the chute is out, leaving no place for hogs to get out by the side of it. Instead of letting the slats project far enough to engage the wagon box, two iron straps may be used having the ends bent and sharpened so as to catch in the wood of the box and prevent slipping.

Dokhara Sheep.

The department of agriculture is seriously considering the introduction into this country of Dokhara sheep, from which comes the fur called "Persian lamb." All Angora-like furs are raised on territory tributary to the Caspian sea. The best fur is taken from the lamb when it is only four or five days old. The Dokhara sheep also make good mutton.

LIVESTOCK NOTES

Pregnant ewes must have abundant feed.

Feeds rich in protein are necessary for the breed ewe.

Charcoal or soft coal ashes should be kept in the hog pen.

A clip in warm water is the best thing for a chilled pig.

One of the best muscle producing feeds upon the farm is oats.

It is always easier to sell a good pure-bred animal than a scrub.

A paddock of warm hay for the sows after the pigs have come in the thing.

Rye hay, properly cured, makes an excellent summer hay for horses, mules and cows.

The ewes should all be bled near the same date to insure uniformity of the lamb crop.

Sheep do not suffer greatly from dry cold, but should be sheltered from winds and rains.

Many a disappointed sheep man's profits has gone to raise immense crops of ticks and lice.

It is nearly always best to save some of the best sows, especially to farrow the early spring litters.

Whatever material is used for bedding, it should be changed sufficiently often to insure cleanliness.

Feed the calves early and from far to not cleaning the udder or from early as the milk is passed.

The pigs give a good opportunity to compare breeds, and farmers should use this opportunity intelligently.

Alfalfa is valuable, not because of the nourishment it affords, but because of its influence as an appetizer.

Once the pigs are weaned it is a mistake to let them stop in their growth until they are ready for market.

Very Serious

It is a very serious matter to ask for one medicine and have the wrong one given you. For this reason we urge you in buying to be careful to get the genuine—

THE FORD'S BLACK-DRAUGHT Liver Medicine

The reputation of this old, reliable medicine, for constipation, indigestion and liver troubles, is firmly established. It does not irritate other medicines. It is better than others, or it would not be the favorite liver powder, with a larger sale than all others combined.
